Janean Acevedo Daniels, principal attorney in the Law Office of Janean Acevedo Daniels, has over 25 years of experience in employment law and civil litigation. Ms. Daniels represents employees in wrongful termination, discrimination, sexual and other unlawful harassment, whistleblower, breach of contract, and other employment-related cases; counsels employees facing unlawful conduct in the workplace; and assists with employment contracts and exit strategies. She also represents individuals in select tort, contract, insurance coverage, disability, and personal injury actions.

Ms. Daniels also advises and represents employers in connection with employment policies, compliance, wage and hour, and risk management issues, contract preparation, and employee disputes. She also assists employers in responding to, and conducting investigations of, employee complaints and claims of unlawful treatment.

Ms. Daniels has obtained significant verdicts and settlements on behalf of her clients, including:

- ❖ a $3.2 million verdict on behalf of two female police officers in a Aglass ceiling@ discrimination action against the Santa Barbara Police Department

- ❖ a $1 million plus judgment on behalf of a gay officer in a discrimination, harassment, and retaliation case against SBPD

- ❖ widely-publicized settlements against Santa Barbara County on behalf of its former Director of Human Resources for gender discrimination, retaliation, and wrongful termination, and on behalf of two female Sheriff=s Department employees who were sexually harassed

- ❖ Six-figure settlements and outstanding results for employees against a variety of private employers, including financial institutions, health care organizations, airlines and avionics companies, technology firms, national restaurant and grocery chains, universities, colleges and other educational institutions, defense contractors, professional services firms, hotel, travel and leisure businesses, automobile dealerships, and insurance companies.
